

Tampa Review Online now at TampaReview.org

Ever since the founding of Project Muse Commons in 2014, Tampa Review Online has been proud to be an active part of the MUSE Commons community, but now that the Commons is being phased out to make room for new Project Muse initiatives, we have moved Tampa Review Online to its permanent home here at TampaReview.org.

Here you will find an online digital companion to the latest printed editions of Tampa Review, Florida's oldest literary journal. We have preserved all of the online content from Tampa Review Online published since it first appeared in 2012 and we will continue to publish new features, reviews, and other online exclusives.

Project Muse still remains the exclusive online source for all of the contents published in the printed editions of Tampa Review, and going forward, readers will also be able to find both the past and future literary contents of Tampa Review Online posted for individual article access through Project Muse. Over the next months, we will be converting and posting past contents there as time permits.

Meantime, we are looking forward to participating in some of the exciting new developments at Project Muse and to exploring new possibilities and directions for Tampa Review Online at our new home address.